PDF files are one of the most used formats in the business world. And why shouldn't they be? They are easy to create, view, print and share. Also, with the right tools, you can modify them easily. They are also convenient, allowing you to view them on any device, including mobile. Since most of the work we do today is done via the web, it makes sense to be able to include hyperlinks in your PDF documents. So we'll explore some of the options for doing that. Let's begin! The purpose of the PDF will determine why you need to add hyperlinks to the document. For example, if it is an e-book, you might want to include resources from your website. In this case, you are adding what is known as external links. These take the reader to another area on the web. On the other hand, you may want to link to a specific section of a long document. If you organize it with voices and sub-voices, this should be easy to do. You can link to entries in the document so that readers can quickly find what they are looking for. You can also have read e-books that come with a clickable table of contents. At the end of the day, hyperlinks can help organize your document so that readers can find what they need. And you can use them to grow your content with outside resources. How do I add these hyperlinks? Depends on the platform you're using. Let's see your options. If you are using Adobe software, you can use the platform to insert hyperlinks into the PDF document. This program also allows you to edit PDFs, such as deleting sentences, changing font size, and inserting hyperlinks and page numbers. To add hyperlinks, just follow these steps: Open your PDF document using Adobe. Click on Tools > Edit PDF Link. Then select "Add/Edit Web or Document Link. Then, drag a box where you want to add the hyperlink. Finally, save the file and add the hyperlink to the document. In newer versions of Microsoft Word, you are able to open PDFs in the software. It also allows you to manipulate the document like Adobe does. To add a hyperlink, just follow these steps: Open Microsoft Word Software. Go to File > Open and select the PDF you want to edit. You will see a dialog box -- just press "OK" to start importing the PDF. Now, you will be able to edit the PDF and add the hyperlink to the area you want. Next, export the file as PDF. Note that some people have problems with uploading PDF to Word because it changes original layout. So you may have to readjust the format to make it look the way you want. Also, this will only work if you are using Microsoft Word 2016 or later versions. Maybe you're more in the digital way of doing things. If so, then it is likely in the cloud. Google Docs is a popular tool that can create PDF documents. However, you are not able to use it to manipulate one. So you'll need to plan ahead using it to write your PDF content and add links to it before converting it. Just highlight the text you want and press Cntrl + K or the link button in the toolbar. Once you insert all links, go to File > Download as > PDF Document. Now, what happens if you don't or like to use these tools? Well, there are alternative options you can use, for example, you can use an online conversion tool to turn PDF into a Word document. From here, you are able to insert your hyperlink and then convert the document back to a PDF. You can find a large number of PDF conversion tools online. Most of these allow you to convert both native and scanned PDFs. There are two great options to consider - Cisdem for Mac users and Readiris for PC users. Cisdem is an excellent choice because it allows you to insert hyperlinks in scanned PDFs. And when you deliver it, create a high quality PDF. In addition, it comes with the possibility to convert PDF lots to editable formats. Other features that comes with include creating, protecting, and compression of PDF documents. Then for PC users, the Readiris tool allows you to add hyperlinks to PDF documents directly. Some of the other options you can consider are PDFelement, PDFescape and Bluebeam. With PDFescape, just visit their website, upload your PDF, and then drag it into a box in the text area you want to insert the link. Once done, download the PDF, which should now have the added hyperlink. Now that you have several tools to insert hyperlinks into your PDFs, it's time to start. Use hyperlinks to make your content easier to scroll and more resourceful. So, if you need to have PDF signed by others, you can always use tools like eversign. You can also use this platform to keep all signed documents in order and improve accessibility. So give these tools a try to see what works best for you. Let us know in the comments you decide to use! ADJUSTMENT: Now you can simply upload your PDF to Flipsnack and add links within our editor. You do not need to install anything on your computer or learn how a new complicated software works. Let me present you three simple and intelligent ways in which you can connect a PDF with the Flipsnack Hyperlink level. After uploading the PDF to our platform, go to our editor and select Link -> Hyperlink to create a new hyperlink level. Here is an example of Flipsnack with hyperlinks. Now, what do you know how to create one yourself, what is your favorite option? In addition, if you are interested in adding internal links to your PDF files, consult our other article that teaches you how to connect to other pages within your document. We have a new look! Take a tour with us and discover the latest updates on the Adobe Support Community. Kurt Gold < Adobe Community Professional , Mar 12, 2020 Mar 12, 2020 No, Meganchi, unfortunately it is a mirage. Dynamic text objects of the illustrator cannot do so. Your approach depends only on a preference in Acrobat. It is called creating links from URL (see general preferences in Acrobat). It can also work in other PDF applications with similar options. 1 Like Jump to reply Ton Frederiks & Adobe Community Professional , Mar 12, 2020 Mar 12, 2020 Yes, it is just a preferences setting in Acrobat. To make permanent links is change the PDF and save it. 1 I like Jump to reply To change the hyperlink of an item, just repeat the previous steps and replace the previous link with the new one! There is a negative aspect of Canva hyperlinks: Actually, there is no way to connect a single item in a hypertext way. element (i.e. text box or design element). So that only means you'll have to make sure you're safe. Create a separate text box or design item for anything you don't want to link to the hyperlink. It's a small inconvenience ... but nothing to stress! Note that your link will not appear on a normal JPEG or PNG image. This feature is only designed for models exported as PDF document. The CANVA IPERTINO OF 2020, CANVA has updated its hyperlink feature, and I was over and over excited about it! Side note: Does that make me the most nervous person in this world, or what? So here's the deal, adding hyperlinks to your interactive PDF is great and all, but it takes time to manually enter each one in, e the process can be incredibly tedious if you have your website/email address in the back of your templates because (depending on how many pages you include in your PDF) they could mean a lot of hyperlinks to add in. Well, Canva has become and saved the day again! So, so let's say your footer includes something like this, in the past, you should manually add this when using the Little Link icon in the editor. But now Canva's technology detects it and automatically adds the hyperlink for you!
